To Whom It May Concern:

Aero-Mach Labs, Inc. is a member of The Aviation Alliance Insurance Risk Retention Group (AAIRRG). We primarily repair, overhaul and manufacture aircraft instruments. The AAIRRG has been providing our company with aircraft products insurance coverage for over two years now—almost since the beginning of the AAIRRG.

The AAIRRG has been easy to work with and has provided us with top-notch service along with saving us over 35% from what we had been paying.

We've examined their board of directors and find that these dedicated individuals are from some of the most respected repair stations in the industry.

Lastly, as owners of AAIRRG, any profits will belong to us and not some third-party insurer. We were stunned to learn that aviation insurance is the second most profitable line of insurance in the United States, averaging over 50% pretax profit for the past 30 years! And, to add injury to insult, we've always been told that repair stations are a "marginal class of business".

It would certainly be worth your time to explore this new and different approach to meeting your insurance needs.

Sincerely,

Chuck Perkins

President, Aero-Mach Labs, Inc.
